

F. BARTON HARVEY III
Former Chairman of Enterprise

Bart Harvey joined Enterprise soon after its founding in June, 1984 and succeeded James Rouse as Chairman and CEO in October, 1993. In January, 2007, he turned over CEO of Enterprise Community Partners to Doris Koo and in March, 2008, Mr. Harvey retired as Chairman of Enterprise Community Partners and Enterprise Community Investment.

Under Jim Rouse and Bart Harvey's leadership, Enterprise grew into a leading provider of capital and expertise for affordable housing and community development. Enterprise worked with partners – developers, investors, government, and primarily community-based nonprofits – and raised and invested over $10 billion of private resources that have helped produce over 250,000 homes for low income households.

Harvey led an effort to bring together leaders from the environmental and community development fields to create the Green Communities® initiative in 2004. This $555 million initiative exceeded by 50% its five-year goal of building more than 8,500 affordable homes that promote health, conserve energy and natural resources, and promote easy access to jobs, schools and services.

Mr. Harvey currently serves on Fannie Mae's Board as well as a number of nonprofit Boards.

Mr. Harvey was appointed by Congress to the Millennium Housing Commission from 2000 – 2002 and has been a Director of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta as well as on the Advisory Boards for Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. He has served on numerous Boards including the Baltimore Education Scholarship Trust, Center Stage, the National Housing Conference, National Housing Trust, and Shepherd's Clinic.

Most recently Mr. Harvey was chosen as the 2008 recipient of The Urban Land Institute J. C. Nichols Prize for Visionaries in Urban Development, as well as the National Housing Conference's 2008 Housing Person of the Year.

Before joining Enterprise, for ten years Mr. Harvey worked in domestic and international positions for the investment bank, Dean Witter Reynolds (now Morgan Stanley), leaving as Managing Director of Corporate Finance. He has an MBA and BA from Harvard University and lives in Baltimore with his wife and three children.
